IMPERIAL DIGS: Meloni lists 3,000-square-foot condo for $12 million.

It pays to be a police detective — or at least to play one on TV.

Former “Law & Order: Special Victims Unit” star Christopher Meloni has put his Park Imperial condo on the market for $12 million. The three-bedroom, 4 1/2-bathroom, 3,000-square-foot apartment is on the 60th floor of the high-profile building at 230 W. 56th St.

The stunning apartment, which was featured in Architectural Digest, has great views of Central Park, 10-foot ceilings, a big foyer, a formal dining room, a chef’s kitchen and a master suite with five closets.

While buyers in the building have included Sean “Diddy” Combs and fugitive software executive Kobi Alexander (who sold three Park Imperial Apartments as part of a settlement with US regulators), the building's former renters are just as high-profile. They include James Bond actor Daniel Craig and Malaysian party boy Taek Jho Low.

If all this sounds a tad crass or over-the-top, there's always Park Imperial apartment owner Deepak Chopra to add a spiritual element to the mix.

Prudential Douglas Elliman broker Rick Kelly declined to comment.
